

Washington International Law Journal

Volume 21
Number 1 Special Issue: Islamic Law and Islamic Legal Professionals in Southeast Asia

1-1-2012

List of Contributors

anon

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.law.uw.edu/wilj>

Recommended Citation

anon, Introduction, List of Contributors, 21 Pac. Rim L & Pol'y J. xiii (2012).
Available at: <https://digitalcommons.law.uw.edu/wilj/vol21/iss1/3>

This Introduction is brought to you for free and open access by the Law Reviews and Journals at UW Law Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Washington International Law Journal by an authorized editor of UW Law Digital Commons. For more information, please contact cnyberg@uw.edu.

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Ahmad Nizam Abbas is an Advocate and Solicitor of the Supreme Court of Singapore and is practicing in Straits Law LLC as an Associate Director in both Civil and Muslim law. He is Chairman of the Muslim Law Practice Committee of the Law Society of Singapore and served on the board of the Islamic Religious Council of Singapore (Majlis Ugama Islam Singapura or MUIS) from 2007 to 2010. In 1997, he was part of the Law Society's team that appeared before the Select Committee of Parliament on the amendments to the Administration of Muslim Law Act.

Sharifah Thuraiya Su'ad Ahmad Alhabshi is Researcher at the S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) at Nanyang Technological University in Singapore. She holds a BA (Hon.) in History and Civilization, and an M.Ed in Curriculum and Instruction from the Institute of Education, International Islamic University Malaysia (IIUM).

Mark E. Cammack is Professor of Law at Southwestern Law School and former Section Head of the Islamic Law Section of the American Association of Law Schools. He is the editor Islamic Law in Contemporary Indonesia: Ideas and Institutions (co-edited with R. Michael Feener) (Harvard: 2007). His articles and chapters on Indonesian legal system have appeared in, inter alia, The International and Comparative Law Quarterly, The American Journal of Comparative Law, and Indonesia.

R. Michael Feener is Research Leader of the Religion and Globalization cluster at the Asia Research Institute and Associate Professor of History at the National University of Singapore. His research focuses on the intellectual and cultural history of Islam, as well as on law in contemporary Muslim societies. His books include: Islam in World Cultures: Comparative Perspectives (2004), Muslim Legal Thought in Modern Indonesia (2007), Islamic Law in Contemporary Indonesia: Ideas and Institutions (co-edited with Mark Cammack, 2007), Islamic Connections: Muslim Societies in South and Southeast Asia (co-edited with Terenjit Sevea, 2009), and Mapping the Acehnese Past (co-edited with Patrick Daly and Anthony Reid, 2010). He is currently preparing a monograph on the Islamic legal system in contemporary Aceh.

Muhammad Haniff Bin Hassan is Associate Research Fellow at the S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) at Nanyang Technological University in Singapore. He holds a M.Sc. in Strategic Studies at the Institute of Defense and Strategic Studies at Nanyang Technological University. He received his early education in Aljunied Islamic School in Singapore, and continued his tertiary education at the Faculty of Islamic Studies, National University of Malaysia, with honors degrees in Syariah and Civil law. His publications include six books and three translation works.

Nik Hasyila Bte Nik Ibrahim graduated with a double degree in Law and Syariah at the International Islamic University Malaysia (IIUM). Prior to this, she received her education at Maahad Muhammadi, in Kota Bharu, Kelantan, Malaysia.

Clark B. Lombardi is Associate Professor of Law and Adjunct Associate Professor of International Relations at the University of Washington. He is the author of State Law as Islamic Law in Modern Egypt (Brill 2006) and of numerous articles on the application of Islamic law in contemporary legal systems. He is series editor (with Anver Emon and Lynn Welchman for the Oxford Islamic Legal Studies book series and a senior editor of the forthcoming Oxford Encyclopedia of Islam and Law.

Ratno Lukito is Professor of Comparative law at the Faculty of Syariah and Law, and Vice Director of the Postgraduate Program at the Sunan Kalijaga State Islamic University in Yogyakarta, Indonesia. He obtained his Masters from the Department of Islamic Studies at McGill University, Canada, and his Ph.D from the Institute of Comparative Law at McGill's Faculty of Law. His publications include Islamic Law and Adat Encounter: the Experience of Indonesia (2001), Interpersonal Law in Modern Indonesia: Trapped between Pluralism and Uniformism (2007), Hukum Sakral dan Hukum Sekuler: Studi tentang Konflik dan Resolusi dalam Sistem Hukum Indonesia (2008), and Legal Pluralism in Indonesia: Bridging the Unbridgeable (forthcoming 2012).

Euis Nurlaelawati is Senior Lecturer in Islamic law at the Faculty of Shari'a and Law, Syarif Hidayatullah State Islamic University in Jakarta and a researcher at that University's Centre for the Study of Law and Human Rights. Her research areas include the development and application of Islamic family law in Indonesia, judicial practices, and gender issues. Her major publications include: Modernization, Tradition and Identity: The Kompilasi Hukum Islam and Legal Practices in Indonesian Religious Courts (2010) and Demi Keadilan dan Kesenjangan: Dokumentasi Program Sensitivitas Gender Hakim Pengadilan Agama (co-edited with Arskal Salim, 2009). She is currently researching Shari'a-based law in Indonesia, with a focus on the legal position of women and children for Leiden University's Islam Research Project (IRP).

Abdurrahman Rahim is a judge in the Religious Court of the Supreme Court in the Republic of Indonesia. He started as a candidate for judge in the Religious Courts of Cibinong (West Java) in 2008, and has been a judge in the Religious Courts of Sambas (West Kalimantan) since June 2010. His other professional experience includes work as a journalist with the Rakyat Merdeka newspaper in Jakarta. He has recently published on the resolution of communal property disputes, and he is currently completing a research project on Shari'a economic law and post dispute settlement.

Farid Sufian Shuaib is Associate Professor of Law at the Faculty of Laws, International Islamic University Malaysia (IIUM) and Deputy Director of the Law Centre in IIUM. His research focuses on the legal systems and constitutional law in Southeast Asia. His books include: Powers and Jurisdiction of Syariah Courts in Malaysia (2nd Ed., 2008), Constitution of Malaysia: Text and Commentary (co-authored with Abdul Aziz Bari, 3rd Ed., 2009), and The Administration of Islamic Law in Malaysia (co-authored with Tajul Aris Ahmad Bustami, and Mohd. Hisham Mohd. Kamal, 2nd Ed., 2010)).

Amanda Whiting is Associate Director (Malaysia) at the Asian Law Centre, The University of Melbourne, Australia. She obtained her Ph.D. and LLB from Melbourne University, and has published widely on various aspects of Islamic law in contemporary Malaysia. Her most recent article is "Secularism, the Islamic State, and the Malaysian Legal Profession," Asian Journal of Comparative Law 5.1 (2010).

Najibah Mohd Zin is Associate Professor in the Ahmad Ibrahim Kulliyyah of Laws at the International Islamic University Malaysia (IIUM). She obtained her Bachelor of Laws (LL.B) and Masters of Comparative law (MCL) from IIUM, and her Ph.D in law from Glasgow Caledonian University in the UK. She currently lectures on Shari'a law, family law, and women's legal issues. In addition to teaching and supervising postgraduate research, she is also a member of the Syariah Committee under the Malaysian Attorney General's Office and the Syariah Judiciary of Malaysia, as well as a panel member for the Malaysian Bar Advocates and Solicitors' Disciplinary Board Committee. She is currently a Visiting Fellow at the Oxford Centre for Islamic Studies, UK.